Summary

A skilled Front-end Developer from Ukraine with over 6 years of experience, my main stack is React + TypeScript. I am also experienced in Node.js development, so I'm actually a full-stack, but at heart I'm a front-end. Specialized in full-stack javascript development, development discovery, web architecture team management, development processes, and development delivery. I have successfully developed and managed over 22 projects from inception to production, with more than 15 handled independently. Additionally, I have experience in teaching and creating courses in front-end development.
